Team-high-rope-station 1: Box tower construction

Well secured with a belt and rope, you can climb high up when building a box tower. A tower is built standing on drink crates, which grows taller depending on the balance and endurance of the tower builder. Teamwork and communication are required here, because boxes have to be replenished from below.

Experiential educational potential:

Communication, collaboration, coordination, strengthening self-confidence, physical experience and mutual safety (redundant safety system by 3 participants)

Team-high-rope-station 2: Giant ladder

The ladder to heaven is a huge, meter-high and wide ladder that can only be climbed in a team because the rungs are far apart. The group has to develop a common strategy so that in the end the entire team is on the last rung and can enjoy success.

Communication, collaboration, coordination in the group, being successful as a team, physical experience and mutual safety (redundant safety system by 3 participants)
